

Keira Rathbone

Typewriter Artist | b. 1983, UK

My name is Keira Rathbone and I am an established fine artist living and working in London. For over 12 years I have developed a unique drawing technique, employing a manual typewriter as a drawing tool. I draw images from life using my typewriter, seeing each imprint as a texture or shape with which to build complete drawings. I develop and exhibit images based around compelling themes and often incorporate live audio/visual performances by typing before an audience with video projection, sound effects and collaborations with other artists.
